

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to blood product compositions, and more particularly to compositions comprising a modified hemoglobin and a crystalloid in an aqueous diluent. The present invention also relates to such blood product compositions which are formulated 5 as hypertonic solutions to provide for low volume rapid restoration of hemodynamic parameters in hypovolemic states.